

Rockefeller meets Lake George, N.Y., youngsters during his 1966 campaign.

NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER

Raised in one of America's richest families, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller was surrounded by strong religious convictions and personal financial conservatism which sent him early into public service.

Before entering the political world, Rockefeller held appointive positions in three administrations, one of the first being coordinator of Inter-American Affairs in 1940 under Franklin Roosevelt.

Others have been as chairman of the International Development Advisory Board under President Truman and Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare under President Eisenhower.

His entry into politics came when he defeated incumbent New York Governor Averell Harriman, against a Democratic trend, in 1958. Every two years since he has sought elective office.

He decided, after travelling about the country talking to party leaders, to avoid a Presidential battle with Richard Nixon in 1960. He won a second term as Governor in 1962, lost to Barry Goldwater for the Presidential nomination in 1964 and won a third term as Governor in 1966.

The 59-year-old Rockefeller was born July 8, 1908, at Bar Harbor, Maine, the third of six children.

Nelson earned his Phi Beta Kappa key at Dartmouth College, where he was vice-president of the sophomore class and a member of the varsity soccer team.

Following his graduation in 1930, he married Mary Toddhunter Clark, daughter of a socially prominent Philadelphia family. They had five children of which one, Michael, vanished in New Guinea in 1961 during an anthropology expedition.

Mrs. Rockefeller obtained a divorce in 1962 and, the following year, Rockefeller married Margarette "Happy" Murphy. They have two children, Nelson, Jr., age 3, and Mark, age 1.

With his political stock rising in the wake of Michigan Governor George Romney's withdrawal from Presidential contention, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller remains a non-declared contender available "if the overwhelming voice of the Republican Party asked him to be President".

In 1944, Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed administers oath of office to Rockefeller as Assistant Secretary of State.

Prior to the 1960 Republican Convention, Rockefeller yielded to Richard Nixon, left, and, long before the 1968 Convention, George Romney yielded to Nelson Rockefeller, right.

At the 1964 Republican National Convention, Chairman Thruston Morton quiets delegates drowning out Rockefeller's denunciation of extremists.

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

Computer, Computer, Tell Me All: Liberal arts colleges (now) and high schools (next) heading for computer training on a broad scale. Not just for those in training to be experts. It has been factually supported that all of the year-long calculations it took in around-the-clock work at Los Alamos in 1945 developing the atom bomb could be accomplished today in an afternoon by one student. Further, the computer could be shared with 30 other students with separate projects. Dartmouth college has its computer tied in via telephone with secondary schools in six states. Industry should open its doors and minds to join forces with truly advanced education at the high school level.

PHONEY LAW SUIT: Irate parents reported joining forces to sue D.J. of Utah radio station. Platter-man encourages teens to "dial a pal." Huge bills have resulted in many homes. One reached across country via the underground musical railway!

NINETEENTH CENTURY DOMESTIC TRANQUILITY: Until early 20th century everyone in family generally "knew" his place: men exercised power over women; and adults over the young. Increased geographic mobility has speeded up the "disrespectful" regard for traditional sources of "authority." Today typical U.S. family stays put for only five years. However, even in 19th century, signs were up that respect for authority was not an American virtue. Alexis de Tocqueville in 1825 remarked, "American parents are more permissive, and American children are less obedient and less docile than European counterparts."

LOS ANGELES TEEN STUDY RED HOT: Board of Supervisors' 171-page report shows that MOST city and county recreational facilities are closed at night. Small wonder Sunset Strip booms. Where else?

Child Guidance Spoof: Medics pooh-poo the idea that rocking babies can be habit-forming and dangerous to the infant. They ask: Has deprivation during infancy of soft rocking led to over compensation during the teen years in the form of hard rock!!!!

MOD NOT ODD: New method of class scheduling at Cherry Creek High School in Denver, Colo., divides classes into 14 30-minute units. Classes are easily tailored to meet the individuals. Students have 30 per cent to 40 per cent more time for individual endeavor. This method closely resembles university arrangements but has not yet been used in secondary schools.

PURSES FOR BOYS: It's true—men's purses are here! Now being shown are two

$2,750. A nine-hour talkathon was reported. The D.J. may be the "lonesome" one before the fireworks subside. Teens are rallying to his cause. Have suggested the phone company offer him a job.

SURVEY OF 420 AMERICAN CITIES confirms acceleration of major crimes in major cities. Typical city has one policeman for each 700 citizens. Full-time police officers on the rise. Tens of thousands were 86 per cent free of racial incidents. Majority of communities, large and small, have no programs for promoting community police understanding. Motorola, sponsor of the survey, is supporting the use of two-way radio equipped cars as a crime deterrent.

Underground Clubs Sponsor New Groups: Recording companies are encouraging "underground clubs" to bring new rock groups into the open. "Can be as important as top 40 stations," says one executive of a major record company. Individual labels move into a town with organized publicity campaign and lay-out between $10,000-$50,000 for radio and TV, newspapers and promo parties. The word of mouth that results locally spreads with astounding speed

by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT! This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! this newspaper.

MY READERS ANSWER THE MAIL

Dear Helen: I'm the guy who wrote in about "going collective"—having one special girl, but also a mutual agreement to date others. You said so many people have written they like the idea that it may be the phrase which replaces "going steady." Hope so. Well, now I'd like to answer "Discouraged," whose brother claims boys only date girls for: 1. What they can get; or 2. The security and status of going steady.

The guy is out of his skull. It may be what HE's after, but not me. If I wanted security I wouldn't have suggested "going collective"; and if a guy takes a girl out for what he can get, he generally finds as his reputation grows, his popularity declines—at least with nice girls. —RICK

Dear Rick: As I've said before, I wish you'd identify yourself so that I could give you credit for originating a catchy phrase. The way "going collective" is catching on, you might even go down in history. —H

Dear Helen: "Discouraged" shouldn't be. My friends and I go out with girls to have a good time —and I don't mean it in the sense of "fun and games," but just plain enjoying each other's company. I know most boys agree with me.

Of course there are some who want all they can get, and there are also girls who want to give all they can. They think they're being "cool," and more grown-up. They're mainly being stupid. —G.T.L.

Dear Helen: I am a college student with a word for "Discouraged." Most fellows my age date girls for two reasons: For the pleasure of fraternizing with members of the opposite sex — but not for sex alone; or because they are looking for a wife. We try comparison shopping to determine which one we'd want for life. —GERALD

Dear Helen: I'm disgusted with "Discouraged's" letter. There's something wrong with a boy who dates only for sex, or security and status. I am 18, and can say I have never dated for any of these reasons, nor have any of my friends. The main reason we date girls is that we like them, and want to show it. The second reason is to have fun with someone who has a groovy personality. —GREG

Dear Girls Out There: "Discouraged" really heard it from the boys—hundreds of them! Not one who wrote agreed with her brother... Which should encourage her—and others—to trot right out and search for them. —H

Hoot, Mon! Not to be outdone by young men who are adopting kilts, girls are going Scottish in their choice of pom pom berets, matching gloves and scarves for cold weather wear. Created of woolly textured fibers, these colorful stretchknits will continue to fit and look jaunty after any number of outings and sudsings.

The Way to Beauty

A WHOLE NEW IDEA in face-making are the water color paint-ons. Actually, they're pastel pretty eye make-up shades. Why not a heart on your cheek or flowers on your earlobes? Your own paint box—4 colors, plus a brush and tiny well for water will do the job.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH
Teeth Straightening
Not Uncommon for Adults
By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

News item: Married couple, both of whom were having their teeth straightened, kissed one night and got their orthodontic braces hooked together. Their 9-year-old son had to cut the wires to separate them.

Only a few years ago this situation would have been unlikely. The ideal age then for orthodontic treatment was nine to 12 years and teeth straightening was hardly in vogue for adults. Now it's not uncommon for people to get hors d'oeuvres stuck in their braces or even break them on a martini olive pit.

Mrs. G had a diastema, or space between her upper front teeth. She always hated it but somehow never got around to doing anything about it. Now she is having her diastema corrected with orthodontic appliances.

Diastema is one of the more frequent reasons for adult orthodontic treatment. The usual cause of diastema is the tough fibrous tissue called labial frenum, that sometimes grows between upper and lower front teeth, pushing them apart, or preventing them from growing together.

Treatment often requires surgical removal of this tissue and then use of wires and bands to bring the teeth together. Once together they usually have to be held in place by a fixed splint permanently attached to the backs of the teeth, or a removable splint or retainer that's worn at night. Otherwise the teeth might tend to drift apart.

There are many other reasons for adult orthodontic treatment. Most common are

Bob Thomas at the Movies
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gordon Parks is a professional photographer, author, poet, composer — and the first Negro ever signed to direct a major production for release by a major movie company.

He'll direct the film version of his autobiographical novel "The Learning Tree" around Fort Scott, Kan., next August, for Warner Bros.-7 Arts. Parks already has composed the film's musical theme and will write its musical background.

"This is a tremendous breakthrough, a thing we've always fought for," he said of his directorial assignment's significance to Negroes. "It might encourage other black boys to say, 'My God, maybe I can be a director, too.'"

Parks, 55, a medium-sized man with a graying mustache and a born story-teller's natural eloquence, has been a Life magazine photographer-writer for 19 years. His cover piece on a Harlem tenement family was in a recent issue, shortly before a book excerpt, "Vietnam Diary," by his writer-photographer-soldier son David, 24, appeared in Look.

The elder Parks, Minneapolis high school dropout, has composed piano and orchestral works performed in Venice and elsewhere. "I just picked up music like everything else," he says. "I was a natural piano player."

Puffing a pipe, tilting back in a chair in his rooms at the Beverly Hills Hotel, he told of his unlikely beginnings: — Childhood "on the other side of the tracks" in Fort Scott as the youngest of a dirt farmer's 15 children, 6 of whom survive. — Strong influence by his mother, Sarah, a religious woman who told him, "You can do anything a white boy does." She advised him to make every experience his "learning tree."

— Boyhood traumas like seeing two Negro women slash each other to death with knives and being locked by white morticians in a room with a train-mangled corpse.

South looked over dummy unenthusiastically. He could count 12 top tricks and needed a club-diamond squeeze for his 13th.

He drew three rounds of trumps as a matter of course and noted that if West were long in the minors there would be a rather simple squeeze against him, but the bidding indicated that East, not West, was going to hold the minor suits right behind dummy.

He noted next that he could handle five clubs and four diamonds in the East hand by cashing the ace and king of diamonds, getting back to his own hand with a second heart and running his last three trumps. His last little diamond and North's last little club would squeeze East.

South tried this play, but West defeated him by hanging on to his three clubs so that the nine spot stopped that suit and enabled East to guard the diamonds.

North was rather critical. He said, "If you want to gamble on seven you should learn how to play the hand first. The proper squeeze technique would have made your contract for you."

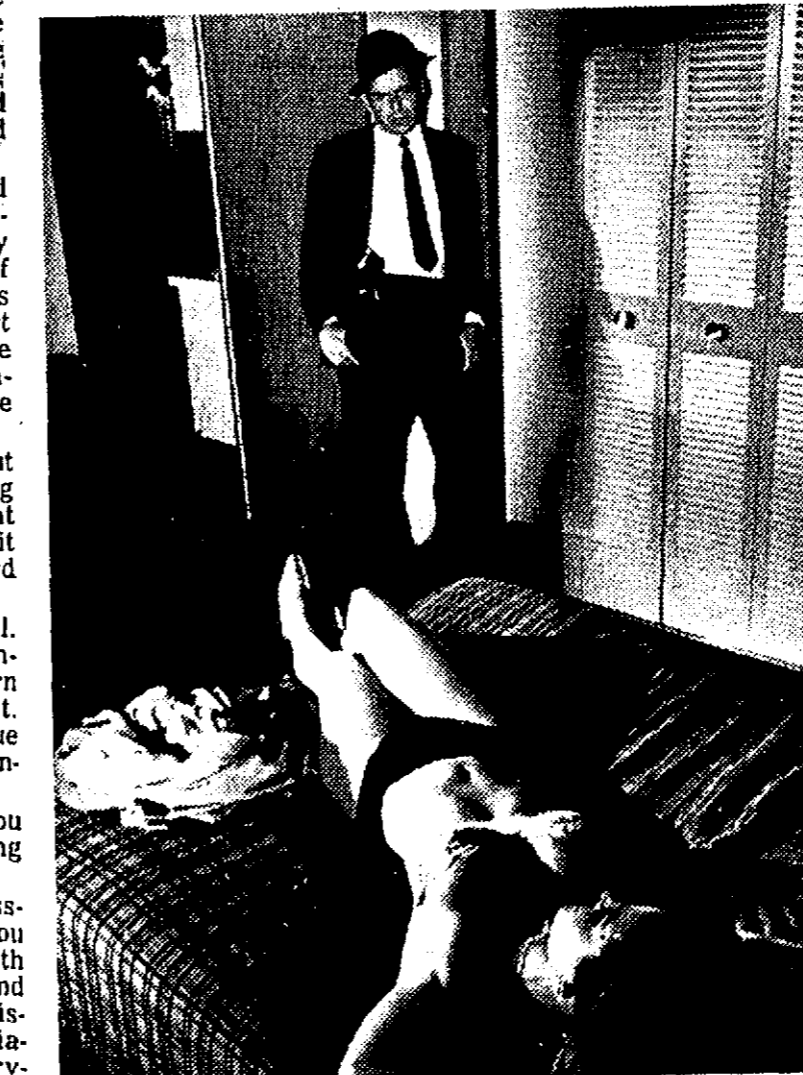

North was right. See if you can figure out the winning play before going on.

The winning play is a criss-cross ruffing squeeze, if you want to give it a name. South cashes his last high heart and all but one trump while discarding the two small diamonds from dummy. Everyone is down to six cards. If East retains three diamonds and three clubs, South makes the hand by playing ace-king and a third club. He ruffs this, and dummy's fourth club is now good.

If East holds four clubs and two diamonds, South plays dummy's ace and the king of diamonds. His last diamond is now good and he can use his last trump to get back to his hand to make it.

Pascual Will Pitch for Opener

WASHINGTON (AP) — After eight years Camilo Pascual returns Monday to pitch baseball's annual opener for Washington, facing former teammates who wore Senator uniforms in his last inaugural victory.

Pascual will oppose the Minnesota Twins, long the home team in the traditional Presidential opener before leaving Washington and changing names at the end of the 1960 season.

The 34-year-old Cuban right-hander, who returned to Washington a year ago in a trade with the Twins, fanned 15 in the 10-1 decision over Boston in 1960. He broke a club strikeout record set half a century earlier by the immortal Walter Johnson.

Baseball, 1968: A Dismal Dish

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—While baseball preens itself for the opening of a new season, the 93rd in major league history, a dullness pervades the spring ritual.

It should be a time of optimism and anticipation—why, even Charlie Finley and the Oakland Athletics have championship aspirations. But baseball is kidding itself.

The pervasive feeling of excitement you used to get with Opening Day is missing.

I mean, when the biggest story coming out of spring training was how the penalty for applying spit to a baseball was changed progressively from throwing out the pitcher to calling a balk to calling the pitch a ball, how are you going to warm up to the traditional umpire's shout of "play ball?"

Baseball lacks personality. The best player in the game today is virtually unknown to the kids who collect bubble gum cards. His name is Roberto Clemente, and he plays in the outfield for the Pittsburgh Pirates. He has four batting championships to his credit and he has batted over .300 the last eight seasons consecutively.

But the biggest fuss is still made over Willie Mays, who is close to 37 years old and has deluded the Giants into thinking that his slump of last season was a momentary relapse. And Mickey Mantle, who is on his last legs at the age of 36 and really doesn't merit his spot in the regular line-up, except that he can still pull people into the park.

When an attractive new face does come along, like Mike Epstein last year, baseball doesn't know how to market it. The men who run the sport blow smoke rings smugly behind a facade labeled "national pastime" and shudder at anyone who makes echoes that will shake the Establishment.

There is no dynamic leadership on top. A commissioner who was a general has been on the job two years and hasn't produced a single memorable idea or innovation when the game is crying for attention.

The game itself demands revision to fit in with the pace of the times. When a progressive thought is suggested, like Eddie Stanky's idea of using designated pinch-hitters and keep a pitcher—or some other line-up regular—in the game, it's treated like a desecration of Abner Doubleday, who didn't invent baseball in the first place.

Pro football changed its rules to stimulate the forward pass and broaden its appeal. Pro basketball injected a time element, the 24-second clock, to speed up its action. Baseball's biggest move was making the fielders bring in their gloves between innings.

A clock is needed on pitchers to make them serve up the ball in a specified time, like 30 seconds. There's merit in a Texas League experiment a couple of years ago which gave a team 90 seconds to make the transition from batting to fielding after the third out.

The double-header, an instrument of the depression years, is archaic and can't keep big crowds rooted for seven hours on a sunny Sunday afternoon when most guys today can afford a boat or a set of golf clubs.

Baseball in its present form is not an exciting television spectacle. The most crushing symptom of the doldrums is that on Opening Day there now is even a paucity of grandmas who once came up mysteriously sick and freed the office boy for an afternoon at the ball park.

FRANKFURT, Germany — Leotis Martin, 194, Philadelphia, knocked out Karl Mildenberger, 205½, Germany, 7.

ROME — Sandro Mazzinghi, 157, Italy, stopped Bob Cassidy, 157½, Hempstead, N.Y., 2.

GOTEBORG, Sweden — Harold Richardson, 157½, New York, outpointed Bo Hogberg, 159, Sweden, 10.

ST. LOUIS: The Cardinals have all the experience, depth, power and pitching that they had last year when they won the pennant by 10½ games, the biggest winning margin in the league since 1955. A team with guys like MVP Orlando Cepeda, three-game World Series winner Bob Gibson, Roger Maris, Tim Lincecum, Dick Hughes and Julian Javier can't be all bad. Stiffer competition and a bit of overconfidence may hurt them, though. They may win the pennant by only five games this year.

CINCINNATI: The Reds were the early leaders of the '67 race, but injuries laid them low, and they finished fourth. They have one of the strongest pitching staffs in baseball, with Jim Maloney, Milt Pappas, Gary Nolan, Mel Queen and reliever Ted Abernathy. If any team is capable of embarrassing the high-flying Cards, it's the Reds.

LOS ANGELES: With a history of "bounce-back" seasons, the Dodgers are again in position to demonstrate their resilience. From their pennant-winning season of 1966, they dropped to eighth last year. But they have talent, especially in two new acquisitions from Minnesota, pitcher Mudcat Grant and shortstop Zoilo Versalles. Hopes are bright in sunny California.

PITTSBURGH: Position for position, the Pirates are as strong as any team in the league. It has been that way for the past few seasons. However, they just can't seem to steal off a pennant. This season, despite people like Roberto Clemente, Maury Wills, Bill Mazeroski, Bob Veale—the new manager Larry Shepard, the story appears the same. No booty on the horizon.

CHICAGO: For the first time in some 20 years, the Cubs are a legitimate preseason threat for the first division. They startled the baseball universe in 1967 by battling the Cards for first place much of the summer. Star young pitchers like Ken Holtzman and Ferguson Jenkins will help keep them near the top. But the other clubs will be a lot more wary of the Bruins this season.

SAN FRANCISCO: There are hard feelings and hardening arteries among the Giants.

Dissension and old age are sapping them of their former prowess. Willie Mays is going downhill, Juan Marichal is considered a malingering by some and Mike McCormick, Cy Young award winner, won't measure up to last year's effectiveness. The Giants finished second last season. There is little chance of them doing as well in '68.

ATLANTA: The Braves also had a combativeness in the dugout that hurt the club on the field. Maybe new manager Lum Harris can solve the problem. Henry Aaron can't do it alone. Sonny Jackson acquired in a trade from Houston, may plug up a short-stop deficiency. That's a start, anyway.

HOUSTON: Potential to startle the league is here. Outfielders Jim Wynn and Rusty Staub are two of the finest hitters in the league. Don Wilson, Mike Cuellar, Dave Giusti and Denny Lemaster, obtained from Atlanta, could form an awesome pitching rotation. But the infield and catching are deep problems. So, once again, the biggest attraction about the Astros may be the Astro-dome.

PHILADELPHIA: It is still a question whether Richie Allen, star third baseman, can come back from the hand injury that sidelined him the latter part of last season. The Phils' hitting is just mediocre. And their pitching staff, headed by Larry Jackson, Rick Wise and Chris Short, is not strong enough to carry the club. Tough times ahead.

NEW YORK: Gil Hodges is the new Met manager. He did a fine job with the Senators, taking over a last-place club in 1963 and leaving them last season in a tie for sixth. In New York, he has some good young talent, like Bud Harrelson, Ron Swoboda and Tom Seaver, and some good proven talent, like Mike Agnew. He also has high hopes. And that's all.

American League

(In order of predicted finish.)

CHICAGO: It is hard to conceive how the White Sox hitters can be as feckless as last season, when they batted .225 as a team, ninth in the league, and were ninth in runs scored. (But they've surprised before.) Tommy Davis, obtained from the Mets, will provide a lot of punch. As will Louis Aparicio and Ken Boyer, also newly acquired. Their pitching is tops in baseball, with people like Gary Peters, Tommy John, Joel Horlen, Bob Locker and Hoyt Wilhelm. This is the White Sox year.

DETROIT: Superstar Al Kaline has never played in a World Series in his 14 seasons. He has gotten close, like last season when the Tigers finished in a tie for second with Minnesota, one game out. He'll be fingernails away again. They are strong behind the plate (Bill Freehan), strong on the mound (Earl Wilson, Denny McLain, etc.) and strong at bat (Kaline, Willie Horton, Norm Cash). But weak in the bullpen, some glaring holes in the infield and a lack of depth.

BALTIMORE: The Orioles were untouchable in winning the 1966 pennant. But last season they were often an easy touch, finishing sixth. The pitching staff, primarily, let them down. It had more sore arms than an infirmity with Army recruits. But they still have the power, with Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson. With Dave McNally, Wally Bunker and Jim Palmer attaining some degree of their 1966 form, the Orioles will again be menacing.

MINNESOTA: Ah, the talent here—Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Jim Kaat, among others. But some of the Twins would as soon spike-wound his teammate as assist in a double play. One of the rumored trouble-makers, Zoilo Versalles, has been traded. But the Twins still lack the cohesiveness needed to win, that plus the abundance of competition.

BOSTON: Overpowering the rest of the league with their fearsome lineup, the Red Sox still only managed to win the pennant on the last day of the season. The pitching staff, other than 22-game winner Jim Lonborg, was not noteworthy. Now, Longborg will start slowly due to a winter skiing injury. Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott will again be highly effective. But they won't be able to carry off another coup without good pitching.

OAKLAND: Joe DiMaggio, famous ex-New York Yankee star, is the new vice president of the one-time Kansas City A's. DiMaggio is a knowledgeable gentleman. That has little to do with the description of the uniformed athletes, but if you can't say anything nice about the players, at least you can say something nice about one of their executives.

New Rules

NEW YORK—(NEA)—This season, only three revisions have been made in the Official Baseball rules.

The rules affected are 5.09(g), 8.02(a) and Casebook 7.08(b). The most noticeable change is the attempt to discourage use of the spitball. Last year's rule stated that the pitcher shall not "apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball; expectorate on the ball, either hand or his glove; rub the ball on his glove, person or clothing; deface the ball in any manner; deliver what is called the 'shine' ball, 'spit' ball, 'mud' ball or 'emery' ball."

The rules makers added: "The pitcher shall not bring his pitching hand in contact with his mouth or lips. For violating this part of this rule the umpire shall call a ball."

However, if the pitch is made and the batter reaches first base on a hit, error or as a hit batsman and no other runner is put out before advancing at least one base, the play shall proceed without reference to the violation.

Another rule states that: "The ball becomes dead and runners return to their bases, without liability to be put out, when a base coach intentionally interferes with a thrown ball." The addition states that the runners return to "the base last legally touched."

Finally, if a runner has contact with a legally occupied base and hinders a fielder attempting to make a play, he will not be called out unless the umpire believes the hindrance to be intentional.

The addition says, whether it occurs on fair or foul territory. If the umpire declares the hindrance intentional, this penalty shall apply: With less than two out, the umpire shall declare the batter out. With two out, the umpire shall declare the batter out.

GOOD WOOD: Red Schoendienst, who led the St. Louis Cardinals from sixth place to the National League pennant and a World Series victory in his third season as a manager, is shown handing bats to Roger Maris, left, and Lou Brock, two outfielders on whom much depends.

STANKY'S NEW PAIR: Manager Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox seems to be holding second base in his hands as his new double play combination works out. That's shortstop Luis Aparicio, obtained from Baltimore, in the act, with Tim Lincecum, obtained from Washington.

Boss Has Some Rights

It can be justly argued that an employer is guilty of unfair discrimination when he refuses to hire a well-qualified, honest and ambitious man or woman because he doesn't approve of the skin color.

But there remain broad fields in which special qualifications are justifiable. If a hotel wants a 6-foot doorman because he would look impressive in his epaulettes that should be the hotel's business. If a man chooses a beautiful receptionist over a plain one he has a right to argue that the girl would help decorate the office.

United Airlines decided that it wanted only unmarried stewardesses. Every applicant was made to understand that if she married she would be expected to quit. Because attrition was naturally high United has had to keep training new stewardesses, but it has been willing to accept the cost. Nobody has been deprived of any fundamental rights. If a cadet marries before graduation at West Point, Annapolis or the Air Force Academy he, too, is kicked out.

Three United stewardesses married secretly. The company found out and fired them. The California Unemployment Appeals board has ruled that the stewardesses were improperly fired. It says California law voids any contract restraining marriage of an adult.

Next test case: Will the California board require the Archbishop of San Francisco to reinstate the next Catholic priest who is dropped because he decided to marry? This could be interesting.

When an adult freely enters into a contract restricting marriage while on the payroll he does it as a voluntary responsible act. This business of telling the boss who he can't fire is getting out-of-hand. — Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

'Peace Gap' Yet!

The quote of the week, month, year—or decade—comes from Sen. John Tower of Texas in a congressional Republican state of the union evaluation in opposition to that of the President. Senator Tower summed up criticism of administration war policy with the declaration that "the nation suffers from a 'peace gap' which we Republicans are determined to close."

If we can understand it, we have a feeling that "peace gap" as a slogan may beat all the gaps that have gone before, such as missile gap, credibility gap, performance gap and you name it. The missile gap turned out not to be. The credibility gap gets wider and can only be closed by the incumbent administration. But if there is a way to close that peace gap, it should be a bipartisan effort.

But, then, this is an election year and the widest gap of all is the mouth gap. — Greenville (S. C.) News

Two Killed in Accident Near Gentry

GENTRY, Ark. (AP) — Two persons were injured fatally and three others were hurt, two critically, in a head-on collision west of here on Arkansas 12 late Thursday afternoon.

Benton County authorities said Mrs. Marjorie Etheridge, 39, of Colcord, Okla., died about 10:30 p.m. Thursday and that John E. Norton, 47, of Pawnee, Okla., died about 1:30 a.m. today.

In critical condition at a St. Louis Springs hospital were James L. Nelson, 72, and Andrew S. Ivy, 74, both of Gentry. In fair condition was Norton's widow, Josephine.

Mrs. Etheridge and Ivy were passengers in the car driven by Nelson.

Dog Catcher's Dog Caught

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Someone unfashioned the latch on a dog pen behind the Richland County Health Department and made off with Son, a German shepherd. The dog belongs to county dog catcher Bob Day.

SUNNY SPRING

Most of the nation is expected to have normal or above-normal temperatures except for cooler averages in the Central and Southern Plains regions.

Heavy rainfall is predicted for the Ohio Valley, the West Gulf Coast and Great Lakes regions, with light to moderate precipitation elsewhere.

PROP WASH from this water wheel will help produce power for one of the largest hydraulic turbines of its kind in Canada. The 150,000-horsepower Allis-Chalmers unit will be installed at the Manitoba Hydro electric-generating station north of Winnipeg.

Panama Court Rules Robles' Ouster Illegal

PANAMA (AP) — In an 8-1 decision, Panama's Supreme Court ruled today that the National Assembly's impeachment of President Marco A. Robles was illegal.

The opposition-dominated assembly convicted and dismissed Robles March 24 and then swore in Vice President Max Delvalle as chief of state. However, the country's 4,000-man National Guard backed Robles and kept Delvalle from assuming office pending the decision by the court, which took up the question Monday.

The guard's blockade of the assembly hall goaded opposition militants into brief but explosive disorders. However, their efforts to whip up a general strike and civic resistance were met by public apathy.

There was no immediate reaction to the court's ruling, which was read to newsmen at 1 a.m. The assembly had convicted Robles of violating the constitutional ban on presidential political activity by promoting his former finance minister, David Samudio, to win the presidency in the elections May 12. Former President Arnulfo Arias is the favorite and the opposition candidate.

A nephew of Arias, 52-year-old Harmodio Arias Jr., publisher of a pro-opposition newspaper, said today that after he was thrown in jail by the National Guard 10 days ago he was beaten with rubber truncheons. The opposition claims 200 persons are still political prisoners.

On Thursday leading members of the opposition said that some assembly members anticipated an adverse decision by the court and were willing to give Robles another try. Others, however, were said to be planning to challenge the high court's power to intervene in the case. Some assemblymen claim the legislature has the power to impeach and oust the court, but this step was considered unlikely.

Viewing Robbery, Bank Is Robbed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — While bank officials were viewing a film dealing with the conduct of employees during a hold-up, two masked gunmen robbed a branch bank Tuesday and fled with $12,979.

The film instructed bank employees to avoid panic and carry out orders of robbers. At the bank, the bandits emptied cash drawers and forced five tellers and 10 customers to lie on the floor.

Urges State Agencies to Cut Spending

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Administration Department today urged other agencies to begin economy moves to help offset the current financial problems the state faces.

Clarence E. "Mike" Frost, consultant to the Administration Department, said at a meeting of state officials in Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's office that savings could be made either by economies or by holding the line on new or expanded programs.

Frost said savings could come in the area of personnel and salary expenses.

"Reduction in staff need not be as painful and undesirable as it seems on the surface," Frost said.

He added that department heads could postpone the replacement of employees who leave their jobs or replace them with less qualified personnel at a lower salary.

Frost said that since 1964-65, revenues had increased by 65 per cent, but spending had increased by 85 per cent.

He said a third of the state's agencies had increased spending by more than 65 per cent. Some doubled and tripled expenditures, he said.

Frost said only a few state agencies had increased spending by less than 15 to 20 per cent, a figure he said would be considered normal growth for the period since fiscal 1964.

Seasonal Temperature

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

This season is called "spring,"
Though my energy is sagging.
Ambition is quite low;
My tongue's not even wagging.

Activity has ebbed;
I just don't want to move.
When plans are made to dance
Now, I'm not "in the groove."

My trouble is not medical,
The doctors all assure me.
Nor is it new or rare,
As far as they can see.

When warmer weather starts,
So does this lazy feeling.
It usually spreads fast
'Till there's a sign of healing.

I've noticed it in others,
Such as an "eager beaver"
That slows his pace a lot
When he, too, has Spring Fever.

Radar Failure Blamed for Plane Losses

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources say one of the two Air Force F111A fighter-bombers lost over Southeast Asia crashed because of a failure of its revolutionary terrain-hugging radar guidance.

This is the system which helps set the $6 million craft apart from other planes.

The radar-directed controls allow the pilot to sit back, hands-off, while the F111A automatically rises and dips according to the lay of the land.

The cause of the first F111A crash in late March has not been determined, but the haywire radar is being blamed in the loss of the second one only three days later.

Both high-powered planes had been in Thailand—the springboard for many of the air attacks on North Vietnam.

Sources said experts who interviewed the two pilots rescued after the second F111A went down got his version of the trouble.

The plane took off from its base in Thailand with the pilots manually operating the controls as usual.

Shortly after the F111A was off the ground, the crew switched on the terrain-guidance radar.

The F111A immediately began severe bucking and the pilots were forced to cut off the automatic controls.

At 6,000 feet they tried the system again.

This time the vibrating became more severe. The plane began gyrating and the crew was forced to eject.

Springdale Girl Dies in Crash

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — A one-car crash on a county road north of Lincoln killed Charlotte L. Yeager, 18, of Springdale early Thursday.

Authorities said the victim was the driver of the vehicle which went out of control and skidded into a tree. Pamela J. Lee, 18, also of Springdale, was injured. She was a passenger in the vehicle.

Wants Prompt Rights Bill Passage

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Prompt House passage of the Senate's civil rights bill and its strong open housing provision was urged today by Rep. William M. McCulloch, a key Republican leader on civil rights.

The Ohio Republican appeared before the House Rules Committee in support of the bill but was summoned to a civil rights conference at the White House before he could testify.

He told newsmen he favors the legislation and hopes the Rules Committee will vote Tuesday to permit the House to vote on the bill next week. The committee later canceled its sessions, unable to muster a quorum.

House leaders, confident the Rules Committee will approve the measure Tuesday, have listed it for debate Wednesday. Passage would send it to the White House.

The bill has been held in the Rules Committee by the insistence of the Republican leadership that it go to a conference with the Senate to seek a compromise on open housing.

In a further crumbling of the GOP leadership position, 19 other House Republicans joined in a statement urging immediate enactment of the Senate bill.

Both McCulloch and the 19 Republicans had prepared statements supporting the bill before the murder Thursday night of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

U.S. Cities Hit by Race Violence

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer
Racial violence spawned by the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has torn through more than a dozen of the nation's cities and struck within two blocks of the White House. Fourteen persons died, including four in Washington, eight in Chicago. Parts of both cities were heavily damaged by fire. Smoke from the blazes in the nation's capital drifted over the White House.

There were deaths in Detroit and Tallahassee, Fla. President Johnson—proclaiming a "condition of domestic violence and disorder" in Washington—ordered some 4,000 troops into the city to control the streets. Some 350 persons were injured and more than 800 arrested.

A 5:30 p.m. curfew helped quiet the capital. Detroit and Memphis also were under curfew.

Illinois ordered 6,000 National Guardsmen into Chicago. Some 3,000 National Guardsmen backed up police in Detroit. Guard units were alerted in the Greater Boston area and guardsmen were on street duty in Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.

Rifle fire broke out on the campus of Tennessee A&I University in Nashville.

Five policemen and National Guardsmen were injured in an exchange of gunfire with snipers near the predominantly Negro North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro. Guard troops also were called to Raleigh and Durham.

Detroit police said 218 persons were arrested between 3:30 p.m. and midnight Friday. Three persons were wounded by gunfire while looting, police said. Thirty-five fires were reported, two of them confirmed as arson.

Philadelphia Mayor James H.J. Tate declared a state of emergency as a precautionary measure. The order closed bars and banned the gathering of 12 or more persons and the carrying of weapons. Trouble also was reported in Pittsburgh, Erie and Lancaster.

Police and Negroes exchanged gunfire in downtown Pine Bluff, Ark., after six firebombs were thrown in the city, police reported. There were no reports of injuries.

Observes 100th Birthday

MOULTREE, Ga. (AP) — Robert Samuel Roddenberry Sr., with a string of "oldest" titles to his credit, celebrated his 100th birthday today.

He was honored this week as the oldest living member of Kiwanis International, and is given the distinction of being Georgia's oldest living Mason.

Slaying Brings Early College Vacation

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Easter vacation at the College of the Ozarks, scheduled to begin after classes next Wednesday, was begun today after a memorial service for the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"The tragic events of the last 24 hours preclude any real or constructive opportunity for learning," said an announcement from the office of Robert W. Dalke, the college's academic dean.

Classes will resume April 16. Dr. Don Davis, Ozarks president, said Negro students had asked for the memorial service for King.

"They were so upset about his death, understandably, that we felt we would not get much done anyway... We just decided to start (Easter vacation) a little early to let things cool down."

Davis said there were about 45 Negroes in the 586-member student body at the college, which is a Presbyterian-supported school.

"They were deeply concerned (about King's death), of course," Davis said. "But we don't anticipate any trouble."

Housing Loan to Blytheville

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Housing Administration said Thursday it had agreed to insure a $465,900 loan for the construction of a rent supplement project at Blytheville.

The 50-unit project will include 25 two-bedroom apartments and 25 three-bedroom apartments. The government will pay part of the rent for the low income families who qualify for the project.

Way Cleared for Monday Memphis March

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Bailey Brown cleared the way today for a memorial march Monday for civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King.

Brown set down strict regulations for the march in ruling on a suit filed by the City of Memphis before King was cut down by an assassin's bullet Thursday. It was originally planned as a march to support striking garbage workers and King was to have led it.

The city withdrew its objections to the march after King's supporters decided to make it a memorial to him.

Anticorruption Vietnamese Are Corrupt

SAIGON (AP) — A youth group whose 32,000 members are supposed to expose fraud and corruption is having trouble. Its top leaders have been arrested for fraud and corruption.

The black-shirted Anticorruption Youth was founded in 1957 by Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky when he was youth minister and premier. The organization is still under his wing, and he is reported greatly angered that the leaders fell into evil ways.

Those arrested March 15 were Dang Van Thu, national chief of the organization; Le Van Kha, inspector general of the group, who once was associated with a Buddhist group that tried to depose Ky when he was premier, and Le Van Thanh, head of Anticorruption Youth in Gia Dinh Province.

Ten other officers of the Gia Dinh section were arrested on charges of draft dodging. Another 600 members, accused of buying fraudulent draft exemption papers from the arrested men, have been called into the army.

The three top leaders are charged with misappropriation of government funds and the sale of fake draft exemption cards. The number of exemption cards involved is not known, but the price ran as high as 75,000 piasters, or $635. Also unclear is whether the draft exemptions were valid, which would mean complicity of government officials, or whether they were forgeries.

There are other charges against the youth group.

Early in January the Ministry of Youth was ordered by some unidentified official high in the government to pay Anticorruption Youth 6 million piasters for a one-month campaign to clear garbage from Saigon's streets.

The youth minister and officials of Anticorruption Youth said the organization received only a little over a million piasters, or about $8,500. But informed sources say the group spent less than 200,000 piasters for a few days' cleanup.

"On the first day of the garbage collection campaign, there were 300 Anticorruption Youth out on the streets working," one official says. "The second day there were 70. On the third day there were 30 and after that we stopped counting."

Do Dien Nhi, the new head of the youth organization, says 1,000 members worked for three weeks cleaning the streets. He estimates that only 100,000 piasters were illegally diverted.

Early last year Ky gave 100 eight-passenger buses to the group. It was to rent the buses to drivers and turn the money over to the Vinasco Co., importers of the buses, as payment for them.

Much of the daily rent money was diverted.

U.S. Troops to Protect Washington

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, operating from a White House turned into a fortress, has ordered federal troops to protect the capital against violent Negro unrest which has spurred him to schedule an address to Congress Monday night.

Johnson was moving on several fronts to combat destructive Negro reaction to the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

Even as he disclosed his actions, roving looters smashed into stores within two blocks of the White House and black clouds of smoke from incendiary fires hung low over the city.

The violence in Washington and other urban centers prompted Johnson to cancel plans for weekend conferences in Honolulu on Vietnam policy and a meeting there with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea.

Instead, the White House said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, will fly to Washington to confer with Johnson—probably today.

The President is known to be particularly anxious to discuss a successor to Westmoreland, who will become Army chief of staff in July.

Working into early Saturday, the chief executive was in shirt-sleeves, his tie undone, his collar open.

The White House police force was on a 12-hour work basis instead of the normal 8 and it was believed the Secret Service agents also were working overtime.

A presidential spokesman said Johnson remained at his White House command post beyond midnight, maintaining close touch with the situation in Washington and in other cities wracked by the turmoil.

He conferred with Washington's top municipal officials, law enforcement officials and Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Christopher.

The President is known to be particularly anxious to discuss a successor to Westmoreland, who will become Army chief of staff in July.

In other moves to deal with the tense national crisis precipitated by King's slaying Thursday night, Johnson met at the White House with civil rights leaders, proclaimed Sunday a national day of mourning for King and ordered all flags over American ships and property here and abroad to be flown at half staff until the burial of the civil rights leader Tuesday.

He led a host of government officials and others attending a memorial service for King at the Washington Cathedral.

As looting and arson spread into downtown Washington late Friday afternoon, Johnson signed a proclamation declaring that "conditions of domestic violence and disorder exist" and that local police were unable to cope with the situation.

He signed an executive order authorizing use of any armed forces necessary to put down the rampage.

Police and Secret Service guards at the White House were augmented by National Guard and regular Army troops. Adjacent sidewalks were roped off and blinding floodlights—pointing toward the streets—were set up inside the iron fence that surrounds the Executive Mansion.

Newsmen who cover President Johnson were ordered to attach their White House passes, normally carried in their pockets, to their coats—something without precedent in recent decades.

Johnson will address a joint session of Congress at 9 p.m. (EST) Monday. He said he wanted to present "suggestions for action—in this hour of national need."
